

Red-tailed Hawk

The Red-tailed Hawk is a species of buteo hawk with a wide distribution across North and Central America. They vary in plumage, though generally all Red-tailed Hawks dark upperparts and light underparts. Mature birds have rich rufous tail feathers for which the species is named.

See colors and learn more

